

FINANCIAL CONSIDERATIONS

We want you to be as fully informed as possible about the financial commitment that analytic training represents, although some aspects cannot be predicted with precision. The current Institute tuition is $850 per quarter, which may increase incrementally over the course of your education.

Personal Analysis for Psychoanalytic and Academic Candidates

Your personal analysis is expected to meet at a frequency of 4 to 5 times per week. The actual session fee and treatment duration of your personal analysis are individually decided between you and your analyst. The Institute has no input in this process. Currently, the unadjusted full fee that GKCPI Training Analysts (TAs) charge ranges from $130 to $215 per session. Our analysts each have their own perspective on fees for training analyses, and fee adjustments may be made in consideration of the financial situation of each individual Candidate. We would encourage you to meet with any TA that you feel might be a good fit as your analyst and speak openly about your financial realities. Our TAs are sensitive to the financial constraints Candidates may have, and fees have been adjusted at times, sometimes by as much as 40% per session, depending upon the individual TA's fee orientation and the specific Candidate's needs as determined through candid discussion of the Candidate's income, hourly fees, savings and financial resources, relevant mental health insurance benefits that may pay for analysis, financial responsibilities, and how your practice or profession may support a training process that will entail considerable time, dedication, and expense.

Prior to your interview with a prospective TA, it is important for you to have thought about and be prepared to discuss your personal financial resources as well as any anticipated changes to your current situation. Note that since Academic Candidates can arrange for a personal analysis with any graduated analyst from GKCPI or a comparable training program, non-TA fee ranges may be somewhat different. Also, please keep in mind that any fee agreement may be revisited and revised periodically over the course of your analysis.

For Psychotherapy Candidates and Associate Academic Candidates engaging in a less frequent analytic treatment with a TA or graduated analyst, the Institute encourages approaching fee setting in a similar, thoughtful manner.

Psychoanalytic Supervision

Psychoanalytic supervision is expected to occur on a weekly basis for a substantial portion of each case's duration. In general, you can expect a mid-range fee for psychoanalytic supervision to be around $100 per session. This fee may be higher for Psychoanalytic Psychotherapy Candidates who are not also paying for a personal analysis. The fee may also be somewhat a function of the fee you are charging the patient whom you are discussing in supervision. Other factors that may influence the fee charged for supervision include the number of supervised analytic cases you are currently working with and relevant personal circumstances. We encourage you to bring up any factors that you consider relevant when discussing fees with your supervisor.

We ask that you bear in mind that standard fees are adjusted periodically. We also encourage you to keep your analyst and supervisors informed of any changes in your situation that affect your ability to pay.
