MISSION

STUDY AND DEVELOP THE ART AND SCIENCE OF PSYCHOANALYSIS

We work to disseminate knowledge of psychoanalysis to medical and mental health professionals, to related academic disciplines, and to the general public. We promote the professional development of psychoanalysts in Kansas City and the surrounding region.

A FORUM FOR DISCUSSION

We began in 1965 as a forum to discuss the theoretical and practical applications of psychoanalysis and to advance the profession. In the mid-1990s our name changed from the Psychoanalytic Study Group of Kansas City to the Greater Kansas City Psychoanalytic Society, and we became a component society of the American Psychoanalytic Association. We became The Greater Kansas City-Topeka Psychoanalytic Center (GKCTPC) in 2008 following a merger with the Topeka Psychoanalytic Society. Today we operate multiple programs in psychoanalytic training, and professional and public education – reflecting our position as a forum for all those interested in exploring depth, insight, and relationship in the art and science of psychoanalysis.

The Greater Kansas City Psychoanalytic Institute (GKCPI) offers training in a number of contemporary models of psychoanalysis, providing conceptualizations and treatment approaches to address the problems and struggles that people face in today's world.
